ABOUT BLAIR

A cutting-edge thinker and practitioner in personal transformation and organizational development, Blair has the rare gift of making the complex simple.

Spanning three decades, his work has taken him around the globe, working with leaders and managers across industries from small classrooms to groups of thousands. A brilliant storytelling with a compelling presence, Blair's work is playful, honest, and courageous. Through his own open-heartedness, he creates a safe environment for people to try new things, learn and transform. The learning, as well as Blair's authentic presence, leave a lasting impression far beyond the classroom.

After co-founding Eagle's Flight where he created and delivered Industry-leading Experiential Learning, Blair's interest turned to the emerging field of Neuroscience.

He joined the team at the Institute for Health and Human Potential, where he became the Director of Innovation, crafting and delivering dynamic training programs that remain at the core of the IHHP offerings.

In 2012, Blair moved to Dublin Ireland, where he co-founded GreenLine Conversations, travelling throughout Europe to share and expand his design and facilitation skills within the context of cross-cultural communication.

Because it is true that 'home is where the heart is,' Blair returned to Canada and has been thrilled to be home again at IHHP and continue that work.

IHHP FACILITATOR

Blair's life mission has been to explore one compelling question:

"How can I help people get out of their own way, so they can live meaningful, connected lives?"

His compelling content, masterful process blueprinting and ability to drive to breakthrough sets him in a small class of practitioners who have both the style and the substance to make a positive difference in virtually any situation. His work is playful, challenging, honest, courageous and impactful.

WHAT BLAIR'S CLIENTS SAY

I would like to express how great Blair was with examples in his own life and his encouragement.

He stands up there with the influential people I admire. I felt valued in his presence. It was great to be in groups with leaders and people who have been exposed to this kind of training and are in leadership positions. [...] This course is a huge stepping stone in my future relationship with opposition.

Blair was fantastic to work with; inspiring, encouraging and fun. I loved this experience.

Blair was outstanding! I've already been talking about this course to colleagues and wish our entire leadership team could go through it!
